

Questionnaire

Treatment with Psychotropic Drugs in Oncology: Relevance Attributed to Possible Side Effects

This study aims to understand patients' opinions about the possible side effects of psychotropic drugs through an anonymous and confidential questionnaire.

If you agree to collaborate on this project, please complete the questionnaire.

1. Sex: W M
2. Age:
3. Marital status:
4. Schooling:
5. Profession:
6. Background / current neoplastic disease with primary localization:
7. Secondary location? Yes No
8. Multiple Location? Yes No
9. Cancer stage Remission In treatment. Which? _____
10. Psychiatric Diagnosis: _____
11. Psychotropic drugs you are taking
 - Antidepressants. Which? _____
 - Antipsychotics. Which? _____
 - Mood stabilizers. Which? _____
 - Benzodiazepines? Which? _____
 - Another? Which? _____
12. Score from 0 to 10 the following possible side effects of psychotropic drugs according to the degree of relevance assigned to them. The 0 means "I give less relevance; It is not so important to me" and 10 "I give more relevance; It's very important to me".
 - Drug interactions
 - Changes in sex life (libido, lack of orgasm, erectile dysfunction)
 - Weight gain

- Increased cholesterol and risk of diabetes
- Cardiac changes (arrhythmias, acute myocardial infarction)
- Somnolence
- Gastrointestinal disorders (diarrhea, nausea, vomiting)
- Alterations of consciousness/ of "self"